Renee Cell 307-360-9136

We are excited to have another February sale. The bulls in this sale are what Justin calls, "Long yearlings and short twos," due to the calving dates. There are several bulls in this sale that were born in June and July 2010. With this in mind we are confident that you will be able to get an extra year out of them. For all of you wanting yearling bulls keep this in mind.

Jensen Angus cattle will be heavily influenced with the original Shamrock genetics. The bulls in this sale represent the direction we continue to go in. Easy fleshing, moderate, framed, sound legs and feet, high altitude bulls. They are developed in a way that allows their natural muscle and body condition to be bred into them, not fed into them.

As always the sale bulls are run and PAP tested at 7,200 feet. They were on a big, high mountain grass pasture and moved down to our sage brush and grass pasture in December 2011. They have been fed native grass hay with a small amount of alfalfa mixed in. Also, they are fed a Jensen Angus bull pellet developed with Ranchway Feeds.

We would like to thank our kids, Keeley, Kelsey, Cody and Cassidy for their help "rain or shine." We want to thank Dr. Tim Holt for doing our PAP testing and his help to keep our herd truly High Altitude. Thank you to our friends and neighbors who have helped us get through this year!

Sincerely,

Justin and Renee Jensen and family

PAP Testing

By Dr. Tim Holt

Brisket Disease, also known as High Mountain Disease or Dropsy, is one of the Rocky Mountain region's most costly diseases. The disease is the result of elevated pulmonary arterial pressure caused from lack of oxygen and generally affects only animals at an elevation above 5000 feet.

Cattle differ in how they respond to oxygen shortage. Some are able to tolerate high pressures for a long period of time, while others die quickly. Brisket disease is not limited to one sex or breed, and has been found across all breeds including crossbreeds.

Pulmonary arterial pressures (PAP) are obtained by a procedure called "right heart catheterization." In this procedure, a fine plastic catheter is passed through a needle in the jugular vein, with blood flow into the upper right side of the heart, through a valve, into the right ventricle, through a valve, and into the pulmonary artery just short of the branches to the lungs. Pressure waves are observed on a heart monitor and the monitor gives a direct readout of the true average pressure.

There are two major concerns when evaluating PAP measurements in cattle. The first is the elevation of the test as previously discussed. The second is the age of the animal. Generally the older the animal at the time of testing the more accurate the PAP test. Any animal 11 months of age or older can be tested with a high degree of accuracy and repeatability. We have found that those animals greater than 14 months of age tend to be very accurate and reliable.

The PAP test is the best indicator (tool) available to date for identifying animals predisposed to Brisket Disease. The test is not 100% and should not be used as such. Generally, cattle with pressures of greater than 45 mmhg are considered at risk but other criteria such as age and elevation of test site should be considered. Test scores are not consistently accurate unless done at 6500 feet elevation or higher.

Research has shown that the heritability of Brisket Disease can be quite high, ranging from 42% - 84%. This indicates that cattlemen can successfully select against the disease by culling cattle with high pulmonary arterial pressures. In efforts to cut losses to Brisket Disease, cattlemen should identify those animals, specifically bulls, with high pulmonary arterial pressures and cull them from the herd or avoid adding them to the herd.
